The Beatitudes

The kingdom of God has come.
The acceptable world order is turned upside-down.
In the Sermon on the Mount,
beginning with the Beatitudes,
Jesus teaches "those who have ears to hear"
what it will mean to live under God's rule.
It's not what you would expect!

God's Peculiar People

Being a citizen of God's kingdom is not an easy job
- some people will think you are crazy -
but you will find blessing in it, Jesus says.

Explore the meaning of this paradox in our three talks on the Beatitudes, as we see that God is calling all of us
to the hard tasks :

- Mourning with the broken-hearted
- Peacemaking
- Going against the flow

SPEAKER

Kay Clark

Rev Kay Clark is Assistant Minister, St Michael's Anglican Church, Vaucluse, Australia.

Kay has a MA in Theology (ACT) and until 2008 taught at the Bible School of the Diocese of Mt Kilimanjaro, Tanzania, training pastors and evangelists for ministry. Previously she worked in parish ministry at West Pennant Hills in Sydney and as a chaplain to women students and lecturer in Women's Studies at Moore College, after serving with her husband Russell as CMS missionaries in Hong Kong 1974-1984.

In a former life Kay was a biochemist, but now enjoys developing her grand parenting skills with their ten grandchildren. She still dreams of going sailing, rock-climbing, caving or bushwalking on her days off.
